Step-by-step instructions

1

Enable edit mode

Open Settings and toggle the switch to enable Edit mode.

2

Open the tile menu

Click the three dots of the tile you want to change.

3

Convert a word tile to a category

Scroll down in the menu and toggle the switch from Word to Category (for example, to turn "hello" into a category). An arrow appears in the preview. Click Save in the top right to convert the tile.

Convert a category back to a word tile

Open the three dots again and toggle the switch back to Word. Note: a category can only become a word tile when it contains no underlying tiles, so remove or move any tiles in the category first. Click Save to finish.

I'm going to show you how to change the type of a tile - from a word tile to a category tile or vice versa.

To do this, first make sure edit mode is enabled. Go to settings and toggle the appropriate switch.

Then you can press the three dots of the tile whose type you want to change. Let's say you want to make "hello" a category: press the three dots, scroll down a bit and toggle the switch from word to category. In the preview you can already see that an arrow appears. Press save in the top right and the tile will be converted to a category.

Want to make it a word tile again? Then go back to the three dots and toggle the switch back. Note: you can only convert a category to a word tile when it contains no underlying tiles. Do you have tiles in the category? Remove or move them first before making the conversion.

Press save and the tile becomes a regular word tile again.
