Hello, I'm going to show you how to navigate through the app. We have different types of tiles. We have word tiles, and if you click on them they are spoken. Yes. Like when I click on the yes tile.

But we also have categories, like here food and drink. And if I click on that, it is also spoken and a new category opens. What you can see is that this again contains categories. So we can, for example, click on breakfast.

And then you get to see word tiles again. And these you can then have spoken by the app. If you now want to go back, you can do that in different ways. What you see at the top is the easiest way: you can, for example, click on food and drink.

Then you go back to that category. But you can also click on start, and then you start completely over again. What you can also do is open a category and then use the back navigation of the phone. That's how you can navigate through the app.
